

Deontological Ethics - Ethics based on duty

Deontological Ethic	Teleological Ethic
Rule determines the result	Result determines the rule
Rule is the basis of the act	Result is the basis of the act
Rule is good regardless of result	Rule is good because of the result
Result always calculated within the rules	Result sometimes used to break rules

Kant's Categorical Imperative

"Act only on the maxim which you can at the same time will that it should be a universal law"

"Act in such a way that you always treat humanity, whether in your own person or in the person of any other, never simply as a means, but always at the same time as an end."
